In "PERFECT UNIVERSITY" a meeting was organized with representatives of the European University "Prague Institute of Management and Technology"

It was attended by the Chairman of the Supervisory Board (CEO) of this university Burkhanov Umar Abdualimovich. At the meeting, a number of important issues were discussed, such as the internship of our students in prestigious higher educational institutions in Europe and the attraction of professors-teachers to our university.

These agreements deal with the exchange of professors and students, their participation in various conferences and symposia, conducting joint scientific research, publishing scientific articles, etc. Higher education institutions of Uzbekistan British Council, Goethe has established close relations with the institute named after the German International Cooperation Society, the international cooperation agencies of Korea and Japan, the technical cooperation program of India and Malaysia, the UN Development Program, DB, ATB, ITB and others.

All these programs and projects are aimed at the development of higher education in the country, improvement of the educational and methodological process using advanced foreign experience, improvement of the qualifications of professors and teachers, expansion of student exchange. Higher education of Uzbekistan It is worth noting the active participation of European Union institutions in the Tempus and Erasmus Mundus education programs. At the moment, 20 projects of the European Union's Tempus educational program are implemented in the republic, and about 40 higher education institutions of Uzbekistan participate in them. The Tempus project is mainly devoted to the production of educational programs for master's and bachelor's degrees in the field of technical sciences and theoretical technologies. Higher educational institutions of the Republic work in cooperation with European universities on the development of new educational programs in various subjects and improvement of existing ones. In addition, the Tempus project provides an opportunity to provide participating higher education institutions with modern computer equipment and techniques. The Tempus project also aims to improve the qualifications of professors and teachers of higher education institutions. It should be noted that short-term seminars, scientific-practical conferences, training courses are held in European higher education institutions within the framework of the projects. participates in the Erasmus Mundus program aimed at strengthening cooperation. Within the framework of the programs, students and teachers will have the opportunity to do scientific practice in European higher education institutions. It should be noted that achieving a high ranking is a long-term effort that requires ongoing commitment, investment, and continuous improvement in various aspects of the university's operations. It's also important to note that rankings can vary depending on the methodology used by different ranking organizations, so universities should focus on holistic improvement rather than just chasing rankings.

Currently, great attention is being paid to cooperation with foreign partners to attract foreign teachers and specialists to the educational process. The most active work in this direction is carried out with the international cooperation agencies of Korea and Japan, JICA and KOICA.
